RUFF! NEWSLETTER

"This year, 2016, I will wake up and be awesome everyday. Try try try, dream big, live life colorfully, relax, create everyday, choose happy, dance in the rain, stay weird, chase adventure, try new things with my pets, do what I love, think outside the lines, be stronger, be braver, be kinder, be unstoppable. Why? Because I can". -Me.

It's a brand new year and many make all kinds of new years resolutions, but what if you held yourself accountable everyday, 365 days a year, so when that next year rolled around, you didn't even need to think of what you needed to do to make life better? That's how I want to live and how I strive to live everyday. Because, life is too short to be anything but happy. So I encourage each of you to think about that and choose happy. Happy 2016!

REMINDERS:

Trails and Tails is going into our 4th year of business, and I want to personally thank each of you for your continued support, trust and belief in this company. You each have contributed to my dream and happiness. Whether you are a brand new client or have been with me since the beginning, you are apart of me and my family. I love your pets dearly and I know my team feels the same way too!

Alright, enough with the sappy stuff! So, we hope your year is starting off great and you sail smoothly throughout it! Winter is finally here. Its been a light winter so far but storms, power outages, water main breaks etc. can happen at anytime. Everyone should have at least three days worth of supplies in case of emergency. Make sure you have a car kit too. This site: <http://www.redcross.org> has a good checklist to follow. You should add pet supplies as well to your kits, extra food for them, treats, jackets, spare leashes/collars, towels, and bedding. Trust me, in the event of a big storm or whatever life throws at you, you want to be the prepared one. Better safe than sorry!

Protect your dogs paws! Try to keep them away from those overly salted areas, because there is more non-pet friendly salts out on the sidewalks, than there are safe!
Bring your indoor/outdoor kitties inside and keep them warm! Hypothermia and frostbite are serious conditions, so please be smart with your fur-kids this season and spread the word! I've attached some good quick tips to this email. Okay now that you are totally prepared to kick winter's ;) we will wrap this up! Hopefully you've made it this far!

I love promoting other small businesses and the entrepreneurial spirit! So a shout out to a few of our clients & friends, whom in my opinion are awesome and you should check out their local businesses, because, they are doing awesome things! They are all listed on my Ruff! page on our website: www.trailsandtailspetcare.com
Kathryn Miller, Charm City Wax, handmade candles
Joanna Otten, Layers of Earth, handmade jewelry & more
Chris Aitken, Crossfit Catonsville, Crossfit, Martial Arts, Yoga, more.
(Winner of Catonsville Entrepreneurial Spirit Award this year!!!)
Donny McCord, Roots to Branches, expert Arboricultural services

Sincerely,
T&TPC Team!
